FRENCH DEPUTY IS HELD FOR GIVING

[by associated press.]

Berne, Sept. 19—The Swiss telegraphic agency has received a telegram from Zurich relative to a statement made by the French deputy Turmel that he received a sum of money from the Swiss federal bank for advice. The directors of the Swiss federal bank according to the telegram declare they never made such mysterious payment to anyone whatsoever and have never had any dealing with Turmel.

An official statement issued from the chamber of deputies on Sept., 17 stated that an envelope containing 25,000 franc in Swiss bank bills had been found in the part of the locker room assigned to deputy Turmal. In a letter to M. Deschnal a president of the chamber, Deputy Turmel stated: "Payment was made by Swiss federal bank for advice."

It is planned to erect an adequate building to house the equipment which in all of the larger establishments will consist of ten thousand books, magazines and periodicals. In charge of each library will be a trained man, one who can make the library useful to its fullest capacity. Large administrative offices will be maintained to map out the work of the camp libraries and to keep the volumes in circulation.

The need for books among the sold diers is a crying one. Though the government provides admirably for the actual care and equipment of the men, but little provision is made for their spars time. At present the V. M. C. A, and the Knights of Columbus are making splendid provision for the entertainment and spiritual happiness of the men, but they crave reading almost more than any other form of recreation.

An exhaustive survey of the situa-tion has determined that one dollar will furnish a book, keep it in circu-lation, replace it when it is worn out, and all the time pay a share of the expense of properly housing and car-ing for these libraries in the various camps.

ing for these libraries in the various camps.

Though books have been solicited from individuals, this method has not been satisfactory. The type of books often given was not desired, and there was no provision made for the administration of any library system. This is absolutely essential to success. England has throughout the war maintained libraries, and in the work has sent thousands of volumes to troops in the most remote theatres of the war.

Contributions for the work are so-licited in every amount. Six hundred and fifty dollars is a relatively small sum for the entire city to give, but every ponny of it is needed and need-ed now. All conations should be left with Miss Egan at the library.

WHY BE HYSTERICAL?

WHY BE HYSTERICAL?

This nation is passing through a chaotic stage between poace and war. We have long been accustomed to peace, and war is a strange occurrence we are not prepared to meet without a decided change in all existing conditions. Absolutely unready for an armed strife, with our military stores depleted by the European struggle, our army and navy but poorly equipped to meet any emergency, we have suddenly been thrust into a world strife, the actual end of which no man can foretell.

Labor troubles are existing on the two coasts, in the various army cantonments that are being constructed. tonments that are being constructed. In mines and mills and you can look back and lay the blame where it belongs, upon the dilatory factics of congress and the unfortunate actions congress and the intotunate actions of men supposedly authority upon matters of cost and production. Congress, while it has appropriated billions, where millions were discussed with awe, has delayed so long that the confidence of the average citizen has been weakened. The talk of billions more to be raised by this or that taxation method, raised by this or that taxation methot, the cry that the food supply is to be held at unheard of prices and not obtainable at any price, all means that a spirit of unrest has swept over the country and many men, sane and solver under ordinary conditions, have lost their heads and listened to the ory of the fingolst and socialistic arguments and become hysterical. Give them but time and they will regain their senses and we will find the present labor troubles ended.

There is no necessity to become hysterical. Good common sense must prevail if this country is to win the struggle it put its hand it. We have entered the ranks of contenders for the rights of man over the tyrannies of the individual. We have breathed again the doctrine "that all men were created free and equal," and across the seas our forces are waiting the proper moment to enter the great struggle that must end only in one wait that of the right over might. way, that of the right over might.

BASELESS RUMORS.

It is strange how an intelligent peo-ple will give themselves up to repeat-ing baseless rumors. Stories, long ago proven absolutely false, are re-vamped and told from mouth to mouth with a tone of conviction and sincerty that leads apparent authenticity and is believed. Within the past twenty-four hours a tale that every
Red Cross worker, prominent in the Red Cross worker, prominent in the work, received five dollars a day for their service, was circulated. That one womant who had knit a sweater for her son in the army, placed a five dollar gold piece under the collar, sewed in, found a woman in a Chicago store with her sweater on and the five dollar gold piece, and that the woman eatd she bought it at a store that was found to buy Red Cross articles.

Such absolutely absurd tales make Such absolutely absurd tales make the average person laugh, but in the minds of many, who can apparently see no good in the work the women and men interested in the Red Cross and men interested in the Red Cross do so unselfishly, at personal sacrifices, it is taken as truth. A similar tale that a woman recently failed to hear from her son who is in the army for a long period, and upon writing to the authorities at Washington learned he was one of thousands who had lost their lives when a transport was sunk by a submarine is so palpably traceable back to the sensational rumor that was contradicted months ago, it that was contradicted months ago, it is wonderful it could be believed now. One more tale of similar natures comes to mind to the effect that the Wisconsin artillery regiments recently sent "somowhere" from Camp Douglas were enroute for Hawali as they went north instead of south, by word of an eye witness who was at Camp Douglas when they entrained, is contradicted by letters received from Waco, Texas, which state the artillery has arrived there safely and is now has arrived there safely and is now heavy artillery and being trained for four months' intensive work before being sent to France. There is hardly a day that the Gazette office is not besieged by anxious inquiries if it is true the German emperor has been killed? That the king of England has been assassinated, or President Wilton was shot by a German say? When son was shot by a German spy? When traced down they are the inflamed tale of some imaginative mind, but like all the other talse stories so absolutely absurd they are really not worth considering, let alone repeating. It does not take much to start a runor that when spread works disaster to many, even though started in a joke. The practical loker is absolutely out of place at this time and should be branded the moment he intrudes his presence into public attention with such reports. They are retion with such reports. They are repeated in good faith, enlarged upon, doubtless, until by the fifth or sixth telling they have reached a wonderful magnitude, but still they should be suppressed and the public should learn that news of importance, news of betrayal of trusts by charitable organizations, can not be hidden, excused or condoned.

THE MEETING GROUND OF THE CAMPS.

Some of us who stay at home almost wish we were to be soldiers, as we read of the novelty and interest the men are finding in the new army cantonment life. It must appeal par-ticularly to many types of men who nitherto have led very quiet and isoated lives.

There will be hosts of farmer boys who previously scarcely saw any greater assemblage of men than you would gather at the crossroads post office or church. At home they communed mostly with their own thoughts. They went in but little for social life, as they could reach the country gatherings only by long walks in the evening. This isolation develops a rugged but too independent type of charac-The enthusiasm of a regiment of men will be a thrilling experience to

Also it will do these fellows good to realize that the city boys are not all dudes and weaklings. They will find many of them very athletic, and quite many of them very atment, and the able to throw the country boys at a "wrastling" match. Also it will do the city boys good to see that the country boy is not necessarily a hay-seed. He may be shy of manner, but have suddenly been thrust into world strife, the actual end of which no man can forstell.

Of course industrial conditions have become chaotic, strikes have gone up, wages of the average workman have also risen, there is plenty of work and in times like this labor becomes insistent in its demands. You never have strikes when the bread line is found clamoring for food. Then there are a dozen men for each position, but now conditions are different and we find labor striking in all parts of the country for a higher wage and less working hours.

Russia, England, France and even Germany, if we may believe tales that have come to us, have all suffered from these labor disturbances just when they seemed so unnecessary and all many come to us, have all suffered from these labor disturbances just when they seemed so unnecessary and harmful to the best interests of the nation in which they occurred five the man a full pockerbook and a full dianer pail and you will find no strikes, but start curraling the dire pail's conteuts, even though the pocket remain well lined, and you waken a spirit of rebellion in the individual.

President Wilson marched in the draft parade the other day, but those of us who used to join in the torch-light processions know that he didn't get the full benefit unless he had three fat doughouts and a cup of strong coffee in one of those thick earthenware cups.

Some of our boy friends indignantly deny that they welcome the new to-matoes because they are a valuable missile to throw at each other. They find them even more useful to decor-ate the school house door with.

The next question is who was ing to get elected to what, by putting those eulogies of the Kaiser into the Chicago spelling books?

Now that the food bill is passed, the speculators will soon be made to realize that the war is not being run for their special benefit.

Sixty-one young men, representing this district's second contingent to the National Army camp at Rockford, Illinois, left this morning-amid the cheering and hearty handshakes of a large crowd who had gathered at the depot to see the men depart for the training camp. Fully three thousand people were at the C. M. & St. P. station when the train pulled out carrying the men to their first step towards bringing home the victory for the United States in the great war. Although the men realized that they were departing to take part in a great war and they were to endure hardships of every nature, there was little regret on their part that they had to leave. They were a joyful lot as the train, pulled away towards Rockford. Many of them with parents and close friends at home, but with the responsibilities which they have the attitude of the men was ag one, that of going away to do their best. One enthusiastic member of the contingent when asked what he was going to do in France and Germany answered by saying, "I am going across the water to bring the Kaiser home to you for breakfast some morning very soon."

The men assembled for their departure this morning at seven-thirty at the court house. The roll was called and found every member on time ready for the departure. Each one of

7 The Food Situation

Just what may be the outcome of the food shortage before the next harvest we cannot know at this time.

But this we do know-we must save every possible item of food value. It will all be needed.

Often we can save stuff that would soon spoil by using it instead of that which will keep. Every housekeeper must help Uncle Sam in his effort to feed the world.

Special economy is demanded in those things that will be needed by the boys at the front.

Business will continue good.

Its' the duty of us all to make all we can and save all we can to invest in Liberty Bonds or for deposit in the bank where others can borrow and thus help to do their duty in the great war.

We want to help solve these war problems-we want to see our patrons gain in wealth and be ready for greater prosperity after the war.

Evansyilie, Sept. 19.—The party given last evening in Magee's Hall by the young men who have enlisted in the radio reserve corps was a very enjoyable affair. About seventy-five loughes were in attendance. The hall was prettily decorated with flags, large and small, and red, white and blue bunting. A jazz band from Stoughton furnished the music, which proved to be an inspiration for all lovers of Terpsichore. A chicken suppersent can testify.

Whitewater, Sept., 19—Mrs. Mary Crumb died very suddendiy at her home on Boon street yesterday morning. She had been as well as usual and was in the kitchen when she suddenly foll to the floor and died shortly afterward. Her daughter, Mrs. Calkins, was at the home at the time and summoned a physician, who stated that Mrs. Crumb had suffered a stroke which caused her death. The deceased had made her home in Richmond, Wis. until about eight years ago she moved to this city and made her home with her son, George. She was eight-four years of age last July. The funeral

News Notes from Movieland

Miss Mary Martin playing opposite William Farnum in his newest photoplays always sees the pictures in which she takes a part twice. The first time is usually with a friend, and she enjoys the picture as a spectator. But the second time she will slip quietly into some small motion picture theatre and sits quietly in a corner with pad and pencil.

"There I stay with grim determina-tion," says Miss Martin. "I watch every move of myself during the whole picture—and judge my work harshly, making notes of what I con-sider the bad points. This is guaran-teed to take down one's pride a de-gree or two."

man by Uncle Sam. He and his colleagues shouldered the burden and did the Job.

The man was Major W. A. Starrett before the war an architect, now Chairman of the Committee on Emergency Construction and Contracts for the Council of National Defense.
No such task had ever been undertaken on a nationwide scale in that space of time.

When this thing was first contemplated Major Starrett told the United Press today "the govornment provided a couple of army officers and stenographers to do the job."

"Word had gone out that the work was going on and every contractor in the conutry was here. As a result, all those men did was to stand in front of the desk and shake bands all day.

WORK FOR ANITA

Anita King's "bit" for Uncle Sam, she says, shall be secret service work. Miss King declares that somehow she inust seems fitted to the work. She says: "There is a sort of mental tenacity that makes me seze hold of a clew and never let go until my work is done. In Chicago, where I lived for many years, I became identified with the service. A wide field exists there. Men and women are under constant surveillance who do not dream they are being watched. It is so in every city, town and hamlet today. The secret service is the watchdog of a country and should not be underestimated. It is one of the most valuable assets of any man's land and without it no country is safe."

are you looking at?"
John's whole expression had suddenly changed. His eyes were fixed upon the door, his face was stern as a granite block. Sophy turned quickly around. The maltre d'hotel, with another satellite in his rear, was welcoming with much ceremony two lately adrived guests. Sophy clutched at the tablecloth. The newcomers were Louise and the prince of Seyre.

"I don't understand this!" John muttered, his lips twitching.

Sophy Gerard said nothing. Her checks were pink with excitement.

Suddenly Louise saw John and So phy. She stood quite still for a moment; then she came toward them, slowly and a little languidly. The prince was still studying through his eyeglass the various tables which the head waiter was offering for his consideration.

"What an astenishing meeting!" Louise remarked, as she laid her hand for a moment on Sophy's shoulder. "What is going on behind my back?"

John rose very slowly to his feet. He seemed taller than ever, and Louise's smile remained unanswered.

"The rain broke up my week-end party," he explained, "and I met Sophy in the Strand. In any case, I intended returning tonight. I understood that you would not be here until tomorrow about eleven o'clock.

"Those were my plans," Louise re-plied; "But, as you see, other things have intervened. Our little house party, too, was broken up by this abominable weather, and we all motored up to town. The Faradays have gone home. The prince heard from Miles that I was at home, and telephoned me to dine. Me volci!"

John was struggling with a crowd of hateful thoughts. Louise was wearing wonderful gown; her hair was beauifully arranged; she had the air of woman whose tollet was complete and perfect down to the slightest detail. The prince's slow drawl reached

"It was my servant's fault, I sup-pose," he said. "I told him to ring up ast night and order the table for two n that corner. However, we will take the vacant one near your deak."

He looked around and, as if for the first time, missed Louise. He came oward them at once.

gueer and strained. Louise made no reply. The prince was already shaking hands with Sophy. "I thought you were spending the week-end with my cousin. Strange-

You look very statuesque and perfect, but I don't want to dine with a picce of sculpture. Remember that I am finding you too attractive for my peace of mind. There's your text!"

He poured a glass of wine and drank it off. "I'll do my best," he agreed. "If it sounds like rubbish, you can still believe that I appreciate everything you've told me. You are pretty, and I

There was the old "Marquis de Guy," a rone, a degenerate, but still overbearing and full of personality, from whose lips came some of Gralliot's most brilliant sayings; Louise, , his wife; and Faraday, a friend of the old marquis, and obviously the intended. lover of his wife.

"I don't see anything so terrible in this." John remarked, as the crutain went down once more and thunders of applause greeted some wonderful lines of Graillot's.

"It's wonderful!" Sophy declared. "Try and bear the thread of it all in your mind. For two acts you have been asked to focus your attention upon the increasing brutality of the marquis. Remember that, won't you?" "Not likely to forget it." John replied. "How well they all act!" There was a quarter of an hour's interval before the curtain rose again. Rumors concerning the last act had been floating about for weeks, and the house was almost tense with excitement as the curtain went up. The scene was the country chateau of the "Marquis de Guy," who brought a noisy crowd of companions from Paris without any warning. His wife showed signs of dismay at his coming. He had brought with film women whom she declined to receive.

The great scene between her busband and herself took place in the square hall of the chateau, on the first floor. Louise reaffirms her intention of leaving the house. Her husband laughs at her. Her position is hope-

"You asked me what I could do." she says, pointing to her lover. "You gee now!

There was a moment's breathless silence through the house. The scene in pose there ever was a play in London itself was a little beyond anything that that was more talked about; and then the nudience had expected. John shook his head.

"No. I thought it better to leave her alone wift after tonight."

"You are going to the supper, of course?"

"I have been asked," John replied, a little doubtfully. "I don't quite know whether I want to. Is it being given by the prince or by the management?"

He leaned a little further from the window, and gazed into the court at a dizzy depth below. He had cut himself adrift from the peace which might have been his. He would never know again the joys of his earligt life. It was for this that he had fought so many battles, clung so tightly to one ideal—for Louise, who could show herself to anyone who cared to pay his shilling or his half-guinea, glorying in her dishonor; worse than glorying in time in honor; worse than glorying in time ing some subtle humor in the little gesture with which she had pointed, unashamed, to her lover.

John bent a little lower from the window. A sudden dizziness seemed to have come over him. Then he was forced to turn around. His door had heen quickly opened and shut. It was Sophy who was crossing toward him, the rain streaming from her ruined opera cloak.

He rose slowly to his feet and caught at her hands roughly. "Supposing I won't go?" he whispered hoarsely. "Supposing-I keep

The Madison committee expects to hold a meeting soon. County organistic attons will be formed and assembly and senatorial districts will be canvassed with a view to getting candidates into the field.

The challenge thrown to the people of the state by Governor Philipp in his veto of the Evjue referendum bill must not be forgotten," said John Strange, chairman of the executive committee. "While the war is the big in today we must not allow the liquor interests to work insidiously in the next campaign under the guise of patriotism and name a legislature that will undo the work that has been done. The work must go forward and we believe that sentiment of the prople of the state demands that the veto of democracy by Gov. Philipp must be met."

SOX PITCHERS HAVE EDGE ON NEW YORK

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] New York, Sept. 19.—Shining superbly all season despite the offsetting brilliance cast by the boxmen of Boston, Chicago's pitchers will go into the world's series backed heavily to hold off the McGraw shuggers and take the edge off anything that the New York flingers may be able to Cicotte, Russell and Faber, the three of the first line defense cast a Circuite, Russell and Faber, the three of the first line defense cast a brilliant reflection in the American league. As compared with National leaguers they attain heights that McGraw's men hardly will that it possible to reach.

Schupp, Benton and Sailee, a trio of left-handed stars, will be the main defense of McGraw, but more than one critic expects Poll Perritt, right-hander to prove that real pitching star for the Grants.

It has been stated that the White Sox will find the going hard against left hand flingers, but no one ever has had the temerity to charge Eddie Collins and Joe Jackson, swingers from the south side, with any unusual fear of a left-side curve ball. Collins and Jackson have been facing high class perchang from every angle for so long they have come to take the left-handers as matter of course and hit with equal anility against right and left handers. Hap Pelsch does his batting from the right hand side, so the Comiskoy heavy artillery will be well protected against the left-handers. It is probable Rowland will send Cleotte in to open against the Giants, leaving Faber for the second day's struggle with lusell for the third game. These three pitchers should be able to work in rotation, provided the usual world's series custom is fallowed. Two games doubtless will be played in each city, with a jump to follow. A full game has to be allowed for travelling, so Cicotte starting the series, would have a four days rest.

ed for travelling, so Crotte Starting the series, would have a four days rest.

The same principle holds good for McGraw, with Benton probably to start, Sallee to follow, and Schupp to pitch the third game. It is likely that one of these will be shot from the hox probably Sallee, and that would mean right-handed relief—possibly Tesreau or Anderson. Nobody would be left but Perritt.

The former Cardinal stands the best chance of beating the Sox, but it isn't considered at all likely that McGraw lill use him unless forced to do so by fallure of his southpaws. Next to Perritt stands Benton and then Schupp. Sallee on the face of the season's runniag, should stand fourth in effectiveness against the American league champions.

Cicotte will prove a tough proposition for the Giants if he is in the right kind of form. Figuring Benton to start against him the battle should be likely drawn, with plenty of action. With Sallee starting the second game, Faber should find it not a hard matter to win his game. And if Schupp starts in the third contest, tasell probably will prove more effective.

ussell probably will prove more exercite.
Russell's case is perplexing. If his it just right he won't be given shot at the series, for his arm is on of the kinky kind that only work right on occasions. If he is a condition he will be practically unbertable. The second line defenses of the two clubs also give an edge to the two clubs also give an edge to the White Sox, with Danforth and Williams. Testeau, Anderson and Perrite will form that line for the Giants with Perrit the only one that has shown championship effectiveness. The three left-handed stars of the Giants top the list in the National league averages, while Russell is the only regular who has accumulated a top average for Chicago. The reason is found in the number of games the hurlers hhave appeared in. Clootte for instance, has worked in more that for tystive pastines and has won about twenty-five of them. Not a New York hurler approaches that service.

NEBRASKA TO HAVE A HEAVY SCHEDULE

Isometric. To the cazette. I Wansas City. Mo., Sept. 19—With Nebruska as presenson favorite the Missouri valley conference football strantion will be practically unchanged from the clost lust season, Kansas being the only weakened team. All of the remaining schools in the remaining schools in the remaining schools in the profession and by the officers' training numps, but the number lost by each rehool so nearly corresponds that it gives each an almost even break.

br each rebool so nearly corresponds that it gives each an almost even break.

Nebraska, one of the heaviest schedules of reent year including University of Iowa, Notre Dame and Michigan, and ending the season by playing Syracuse University on Thanksciving day at Lincoln. The Corninsker schedule includes only two of the Missouri Valley teams, Missouri and Kansas, the former playing at Lincoln, for the first time since 1911.

Nobraska wil return six veterans, Captin Shaw, right tackle; Riddeil, right end; Rhodes, left end and left mard; Took, half back; Dobson, half back; and Outapalik, lineman. With this staunch nucleus, Coach Stewart is expected to build up another machine such as the school has been noted far in recent years.

The strongost opponents of the Nebraska, aggregation will be the University of Missouri, last year's valey champions, and the Kansas Augler Should Nebraska lose to either Kansas or Missouri the school will be i immuniced from the title competition

TRIS DISCOVERS FOUNTAIN OF YOUTH; OTHERS AGE, BUT HE GROWS YOUNGER

There never was a leading baseball star about whom there was so much doubt over his age as in the case of Tris Speaker. The record books up to last year have Speaker born in 1883. Speaker didn't deny them in the old days, but now he stoutly asserts that he was born in 1888. But forthe general misconception regarding Speaker's age, it is likely that the Yankees would have bought him in 1916.

COVELESKI CAUSES DETROIT'S DOWNFALL

Fayettevie, Ark., Sept. 19.—Norman C. Paine, former University of Chicago quarterback, has been appointed coach of the University of Arkansas eleven to succeed James B. Craig, who has entered the officers' reserve training camp. For the last two years Paine has been an assistant to Coach Stagg of the University of Chicago. With the coming of Paine, the Razorbacks will go back to the Chicago system of football under which they made a record under the coaching of Hugo Bezdek from 1908 to 1912.

The following was glimpsed in the London Times, same being a description of the American soldiers who recently marched through the streets of the British capital: "Many of the men in the ranks were athletes. More than one private carrying his rifle in yesterday's parade has stood at the diamond and bit balls that made the outfield scatter to the four corners of the ground. Many of them have pitched balls fast enough and curly enough to make the best batsman resume his seat after a bare few seconds with never a base gained." John, this is terrible.
